COSMOS.

Anniversary week at the Cosmos Theater is being observed with an exceptionally good program, headed by Sari's Concert Band, in a galaxy of operatic and popular selections. It is an unusually fine musical attraction. Wilson and Waring, with a "laugh-o-loque" entitled "At Independence Hall," offer a novel two-man act which is filled with new repartee and has a patriotic finale new repartee and has a patriotic finale that tells strongly with the audience. 'Matler' is an offering better understood after being seen than described, but it offers some laughable nonsense and some unusually good song music in duet. One of the best flying trapeze and ring offerings of the season opens the bill, and establishes the Aerial Prices as real leaders in their line. "A Night at the Bath," while less in the line of the average cosmos attractions nevertheless give a peculiar brand of farce comedy. The Pathe Mexican war pictures were more interesting and definite than last week. and the photoplays furnished good entertainment. After the second matines the game between the Nationals and Phila-delphia, as reproduced on the new Cosboard, entertained a large au-

Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador, communicated to the State Department a telegram received from the British consul at Guadalajara, where the outrage was committed. The British consul said the Americans and Englishmen in charge of the El Favor mines, after insisting on searching the Mexicans employed there in an attempt to recover stolen bars of silver, were attacked and many were wounded.

The British consul's telegram stated that Hocadley and Williams, after surrendering their arms, were stabbed and mutilated by the mob. Ramsdell, another British subject, reported killed in the melee, has not yet been located. Harrison and Oldfield, supposedly Americans, were reported safe.

A number of Americans and Englishmen who were imprisoned by the Mexicans, have been released, the British consul telegraphed. His telegram concluded: "All quiet now."
